ABSTRACT

The two lists in this guide contain basic information about almost 200 periodicals that consistently carry materials about reading. The information was provided by the editors of those periodicals in response to a questionnaire. Questions were asked about the audience addressed, type of materials published, processes for obtaining, reviewing and selecting articles for publication, and submission guidelines. The first list provides such information as addresses, rate of publication, type of publication, and circulation. The second list presents the rest of the information received from the editors in matrix form. (MS)

How to Use the Contributor's Guide to Periodicals in Reading

Scope

The two lists that follow include basic information about almost two hundred periodicals that consistently carry materials about reading. The information was provided by the editors of those periodicals in response to a questionnaire.

Using This Guide

Every periodical included in this guide appears alphabetically on each of the two lists. The first list offers information about editor, address, and editorial procedures. The second list is presented as a matrix primarily because of the compactness of that format. To use this guide most efficiently, please first read the sample questionnaire following the list of periodicals. Editors' responses to starred items on the questionnaire are reported in the matrix, and responses to unstarred items are reported in the first list. Quotation marks in the first list indicate comments of individual editors.

This guide in no way reflects advocacy or endorsement by the International Reading Association of any periodical except, of course, for the four IRA journals included.
